

Do I need to file a record before installing photovoltaic panels

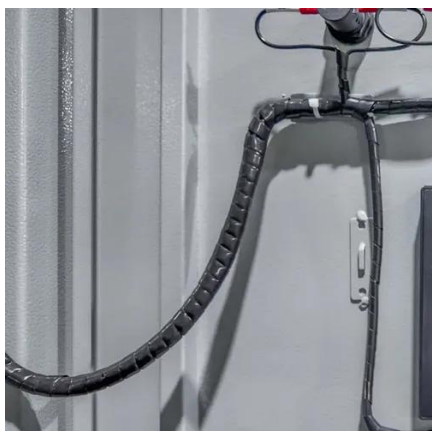

Overview

While documentation is not required to be filed with your tax return, it may be required if your tax return is audited. Permitting and inspection are required before a solar array is allowed to produce electricity on the grid. These documents will also be needed to substantiate your adjusted basis if the property is. If you want to install solar panels, obtaining the proper solar permits is an essential step to ensure your energy system can operate safely, legally, and at no risk to your roof, home, or those living on site. However, there are specific exceptions and variations. Understand the solar panel permitting process from start to finish. In other cases, you may not need a permit, but you will still.
