Overview

Asuncion, the capital city of Paraguay, is experiencing a dynamic shift in its job market as we move into 2024. The city's economy is bolstered by a mix of traditional and emerging industries, with significant contributions from sectors such as finance, agriculture, and technology. Sandino Flecha and Elisa Marecos ASUNCIÓN—Distrito Perseverancia has been billed as “a city within a city. ” The $300 million private development, due to open later this year in Paraguay's capital, will include boutiques. The Paraguayan capital's corporate office market, still small compared to the region, is showing sustained growth with new space additions, stable prices, and the arrival of high-standard projects that aim to diversify the offering and improve the quality of the available stock. We publish market research reports for 100 countries, plus global strategy briefings and in-depth regional analysis. We profile leading companies in consumer goods industries. The report includes historic data and forecasts on city population, consumer expenditure, digital penetration, wealth and other consumer topics. Transitioning from academia to the professional world can be challenging, yet the dynamic nature of Asuncion offers a myriad of opportunities to those equipped to.
